SOCIETY

Miss Oneta Newhart, 508 S. Michigan st., delightfully entertained with a kitchen shower Tuesday evening in compliment to Miss Martha Newhart, whose marriage to Aaron Smith of this city will take place at Notre Dame Nov. 24. Games and music were the features of the evening and Misses Inez DeFreese and Gladys Souley were awarded favors in the contests. A two course luncheon marked the close, a color note of yellow and white being prettily effected in the decorations of chrysanthemums. The honor guest received many pretty gifts. Mrs. Harry Bueche, 1025 DeMaude av., a sister of the bride-to-be, will entertain for her with a china shower Friday evening.

Mrs. Grace Mitchell's Sunday school class of the First M. E. church was pleasantly entertained at the home of Laura E. Garfield, 907 S. Michigan st., Tuesday evening. The affair was in the nature of a miscellaneous shower for Miss Winifred Ellis, whose marriage to George Miller will take place in the near future. The evening was spent socially with games, and dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Herman Tothuk, 817 S. Franklin st., was hostess at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church Tuesday. The devotionals were led by Mrs. George Taylor and Mrs. A. W. Lee and a responsive reading, "The Social Force of Christian Missions," was read by Mrs. C. E. Burner. Mrs. T. McNett read a leaflet entitled, "Not My Business," and Mrs. William McNitt and Mrs. Myron Campbell gave interesting reports of the recent missionary meeting at Terre Haute. During the social hour which followed the program the hostess served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Will Taylor, Mrs. C. Werner, Mrs. Thrams and Mrs. W. G. Wegner. The next meeting will be held on Dec. 15.

Mrs. M. J. Tilt, 201 N. Main st., entertained the members of the Charity club Tuesday afternoon. During the business session arrangements were made for a card party to be held Thursday at the W. O. W. hall in charge of Mrs. Sack. The afternoon was spent socially and Mrs. Tilt gave a recitation, "The Love of Life," and a vocal solo, "Heaven is My Home." Mrs. Evelyn Kilmer gave a talk on "What can be done in the name of Charity." Refreshments were served toward the close of the afternoon. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Margaret Thorpe, 211 Lincoln way W.

Mrs. Albert Hay, 901 E. Bowman st., pleasantly entertained with a stag party at her home Tuesday evening. Music and games were the features of the evening and toward the close a 6-course luncheon was served from a table prettily decorated with white chrysanthemums. Covers were placed for 10.

The Old Maid's club of Schuyler Rebekah lodge held a meeting Tuesday evening in the O. O. F. hall. Plans were made for a social entertainment at their next regular meeting Tuesday evening, during the business session. The remainder of the evening was spent with social diversions.

A meeting of the mothers' department of the Progress club was held Tuesday afternoon in the club rooms. Two instructive papers were given by Mrs. J. L. Sallora on "Home Occupation for Little Children," and by Mrs. Richard Elbel, whose subject was "Industrial Work for Older Children." A large number of members were in attendance. The department will hold another meeting on Nov. 30.

Mrs. Frank E. Dolph, N. Shore dr., was hostess Tuesday evening at the Navarre Place Tuesday Bridge club Monday afternoon. The guests filled three tables at bridge and the favors were taken by Mrs. Rudolph H. Horst and Mrs. Vernon C. Hastings. Dainty refreshments marked the close of the afternoon. In two weeks members of the club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Goewey, 851 Park av.

Members of the Diamond Pedro club were entertained in a pleasing manner Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. E. Barnhart at her home, 620 S. LaSalle av. The afternoon was given to cards at which Mrs. John Holland and Mrs. H. Vandenberg received the honors. Refreshments were enjoyed during the social time. Mrs. Glen A. Cover, 115 N. Notre Dame av., will be hostess at the meeting on Nov. 30.

The Ayudadora circle members met on Tuesday afternoon for their fortnightly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. M. Moore, 1077 Woodward av. Needlework was the feature of the afternoon, and the hostess served a luncheon. On Dec. 30 the club will be entertained by Mrs. P. C. Noble, 411 Lincoln way W.

Miss Mell Ringle entertained the Cosmopolitan club Monday evening in the parlors of the Young Women's Christian association. The evening was spent socially and with needlework after which light refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be in two weeks with Mrs. Roy Wiley, 730 Harper ct.

The Harmony Reading circle members met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Stuart Reynolds, 201 S. LaSalle st., for their annual Thanksgiving dinner. Dinner was served at noon from an effectively arranged table and there were places for 11 members and two guests. The afternoon was spent in a social way with comic reminiscences by members of the club. Mrs. E. P. Burns, 1026 Lincoln way W., will be hostess at a meeting of the club to be held Nov. 30.

The Married Folks' Dancing club opened its season Tuesday evening in the American hall with 43 couples present. Music's orchestra of eight pieces furnished the music for the evening and during the intermission a buffet supper was served. A committee in charge of the evening in-

Hat of Pressed Beaver

By La Raconteuse.

Wide brimmed hats with a flare to one side afford a smart change in some of the hats this season. Fur and flowers for trimming are seen quite often. Here a smart pressed beaver is trimmed with a band of fox fur and a floral cluster in soft rich tones. This hat is worn here with a Russian blouse suit of wool mohair featuring fox fur on the coat. Smart buttons afforded an interesting item.

included Mrs. E. R. Austin, chairman; Mrs. Frank B. Hizer, Mrs. E. Johnson, Mrs. Charles Harper and Mrs. J. H. Ellis. The club is planning a number of dances for the winter and a pleasant season is anticipated.

The Philathea class of Westminster Presbyterian church met Monday evening at the home of Miss Blanche Granter, 215 Laurel st. Miss Bernice Norris and Mrs. F. Ines were the assisting hostesses. A social hour followed the business meeting. Members of the class will meet Dec. 6, with Mrs. Edward Strickler, 535 Lincoln way W.

Miss Lena Marks and Charles Perkins, both of this city, were quietly married Sunday at St. Joseph, Mich. They will make their home at 315 Wood st., and will be at home after Nov. 15.

A joint meeting of the Standard Bearers and the Smile club of the First M. E. church was held in the friendly parlors of the church last evening. The meeting was in the nature of a supper. Miss Margaret Geyer acted as toastmistress and there were 20 members present. A program was given as follows: Two selections, "Blessed Redeemer" and "I Hear a Voice, 'Tis Sad and Sweet" by the Smiles' quartet composed of the Misses Martha Roberts, Ethel Phillips, Clara Steiner and Nancy Roberts. Miss Geneva Morse gave a reading, "Singing Bird"; Miss Margaret Geyer also favored with a reading, "Martha's Faith." Another meeting of the class will be held in December.

More than 100 members and friends attended the picnic supper given Tuesday by the Auten W. R. C. and the Auten Relief corps at the old court house. The Alabama minstrels was a special feature of the evening's program, and several addresses by members of the order were given. A luncheon has been arranged for Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 23.

The Queen Esther circle of Grace M. E. church was entertained at the home of Miss Hazel Brodbeck, 1137 S. Michigan st. Miss Ethel Herberster was the assisting hostess. During the business meeting plans were made to send a basket of food to a needy family at Thanksgiving time. The last chapters of "Red Men" were read after which a social time was enjoyed. Refreshments were served. No place has been selected for the meeting on Dec. 21.

KEEPING YOUNG.

It is one of the ambitions of the 20th century to keep young; and it is a laudable one. This is an age that calls for youthful spirits and all that goes with them. In years gone by men and women lived according to custom. A woman was expected to give up youth as soon as she was married. Years had nothing to do with it. She shed her bonnet strings under her chin and that was the line of demarcation, as far as her youth was concerned. Difference in dispositions and lives counted as naught. Temperament was an unknown quality. A man put on the cap of dignity with fatherhood and tried to be a living example, obliterated the fact that he had ever sown any wild oats, and cultivated whiskers and avoidances as adjuncts.

It's all very different today. Fathers are pals and comrades. Mothers are sisters and companions. Beauty parlors, culture courses, dancing classes, masques, are reaping fortunes with the struggles against the arch enemy, age.

The increasing waist line, the grey hairs, the wrinkles, are met with a battery of gymnastics and treatments that ought to make such an enemy retreat.

We women do not wish to grow old, and from what one hears about rubber belts, golf, long walks and standing 20 minutes after eating, it seems as though the men were also taking notice. It is not all gout and rheumatism that is making some men die when the vest buttons begin to feel the strain. It is entirely futile to try to go against the spring of age. Yet some one has asked if the younger generations benefit by the lengthening out of life; whether it does not interfere with their chances, frustrate their ambitions; if young fathers and mothers are not a handicap.

If children have lost something they also have gained a great deal. In the place of, "Oh, they would not understand," they can feel that the modern mother and father have not a limited horizon of thought, that they are not looking at youth with the artificial opera glasses of age.

If a little massage, the right kind of diet or exercise can keep the body going, we should not be forced to stand still because the next generation is crowding in behind. Why shouldn't the experience of living for the which we so often pay a big price, bring in some interest later on in life? Why should we advocate just when we have learned the true value of things, when we can distinguish between the dross and the fine gold? We have wandered so far and retraced our steps so many times from uncongenial ways.

Youth carries with it, hope, forgetfulness, intense enjoyment, but it also teaches many bitter lessons. We will have learned much when we have reached the youth of old age. We cannot prevent time writing wrinkles on the face, but we can prevent cares from writing wrinkles on the mind, and wrinkles on the face matter little, so long as we have none on the mind.

Well Hung Mirror

Highly Decorative

Have Place in Every Room in House—Period a Consideration.

Mirrors, decoratively speaking, are among the most important items of home furnishing. Interest spent in their placement and in harmonizing them with general surroundings is well repaid. Like other pieces of furniture, they have their classification in periods, and these need recognition and adjustment.

Much may be said about the boudoir mirror, for this must be an article for use as well as decoration. The modern city rooms are often rather small for cheval glasses, however, convenient they have proved, and so a woman depends greatly on her bureau or dressing table mirror. In the matter of selection, it should be chosen separate from the chest of drawers. Its material may be either a matching wood, or gold, or silvered wood. The latter is very charming with bedrooms done in pastel tints and with soft silk hangings and cushions. It is scarcely decisive with chintzes, and entirely out of place with black and white tones.

The best aid for dressing is had when the mirror is not directly opposite the light; for when so set the light coming through the window is reflected in such a way that the user secures it when standing in front of the glass. Electric bulbs for the dressing table, for best results, should be where the light falls directly on the person and so disposed that the bulb itself is not reflected. If this latter arrangement occurs, a glare of light and double reflection defeat the purpose of the mirror.

In the bedroom the utility of the mirror ought not to be made second to its general appearance, but with a little thought there can be a combination of these items that will be wholly satisfactory.

Mirrors were not general until 1700, and the first ones, owing to their cost, were small. The next step in their development was the mirror of two glasses, the upper half, or upper one, cut in a lower pattern. Nowadays the plain glass, and one of fairly large size, is popular. A popular use is made for one that is long and narrow is over a console of 18-inch depth, which may be placed at one end of a living room to dress that end of the room.

The original plan for the drawing or living-room mirror, that is, over the mantel, is now often claimed for a painting of size and distinction. The sideboard mirror in the dining room may be of gilt and unmatched, and mirrors are to be had now of Italian, Queen Anne, Adam, William and Mary, or earlier English periods. Fancier furniture, which does not produce a certain dignity in hallways, is not popular nowadays. Here, in the dining room, the mirror is very often detached, as many people prefer it so.

The woman who wishes to multiply loveliness in her home will find that mirrors are to be had in a way not only doubled in ornamental value, but catch the light in a happy way. This is particularly true if the vase or bowl which holds the blossoms be of glass or silver.

POPE MAY RENOUNCE TEMPORAL POWERS

Step Will be Taken to Allow Him to Participate in Peace Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—"It is stated here that at the approaching consistory Pope Benedict XV., will substantially declare a renunciation of temporal power," says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from its Rome correspondent.

The pontiff will take this step the correspondent adds, to guarantee his liberty in spiritual work and with the consent of Italy, his presence in the general European conference to follow the war.

The correspondent makes no comment on his message but it was taken here as indicating that steps toward peace are imminent.

Temporal powers is the sovereign power which the pope possessed as ruler of the papal states, which although modified in its exercise by his spiritual character was in substance the same as that of any arbitrary sovereign. Upon the incorporation of the papal states into the kingdom of Italy the question was agitated before the entire world and is still, more than a generation later, a practical matter for discussion. Most Roman Catholics, while admitting that the possession of temporal sovereignty is not essential part of the privileges of the successor to St. Peter, regard the possession of sovereignty independent of any point sovereign as the means providentially established for the protection of the spiritual independence of the pope and of the free exercise of his functions as spiritual ruler of the church.

PRESIDENT IN APPEAL

Urges Utah Governor to Reconsider Hillstrom Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Wilson today telegraphed Gov. Spry of Utah urging him to "reconsider" the case of Joseph Hillstrom, the I. W. W. poet sentenced to die next Friday at Salt Lake City. The president has no power to pardon Hillstrom, whose fate rests solely with the Utah governor. Following is President Wilson's telegram.

"With unfeigned hesitation, but with a very earnest conviction of the importance of the case, I again venture to urge upon your excellency the justice and propriety of a thorough reconsideration of the case of Joseph Hillstrom."

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every particle of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandierine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with little Dandierine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandierine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandierine from any drug-gist or toilet counter, and just try it. Save your hair! Beautiful! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.
